SEVERE CONTESTS AGAIN.

THE ADVANTAGE ON OUR SIDE.

A Whole Rebel Brigade Captured.

Additional Accounts of the Recent Battles

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21, 1862. We have just received a brief dispatch from one of your special correspondents, who returned this afternoon to Frederick from our advance lines.

Heavy firing was going on all day yesterday, he eavs, both cannonading and musketry, and many wounded men were being brought in.

Our troops had crossed the Potomac in large force, and were fighting on the other side. The rest of the army had advanced to the river.

In the fighting, so far, we had decidedly the advantage of the Rebels.

Yesterday we captured a whole brigade of them, 2 000 in number. This your correspondent asserts upon the testimony of his own eyes. When he left the field at midnight of Saturday, the firing had not ceased.

The Renewal of Hostilities.

FREDERICK, Sept. 21—Morring.
HEADQUARTERS, Saturday Evering.
The 4th Michigan, with a few men from Syles brigade, crossed the river at Shepherdstown Ford late yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of making a reconnoissance. They met with a stout resistance from the enemy, but succeeded in reaching this side of the river with but slight loss, bringing with them four pieces of artillery which they took from the

The occupation of the Virginia shore was attempted again this morning, with less success. Acting Brig.-Gen. Barnes, with his own and a portion of Sykes's brigade, some cavalry, and two bat- says that the firing was between ours and the Rebel teries, crossed the river and took a position on the Virginia shore.

Shortly after the troops had been placed in po sition, the enemy emerged from under the cover of woods, with a line of infantry nearly a mile long. Both troops soon became engaged, when the order was given to retire, which was done in good order, the enemy following close behind. When the enemy war, they merely made a show of burying the killed. came within range, fire was opened with twenty and used the time thus obtained to cross their wagons pleces of our artillery, posted on the Maryland bank, and artillery and the main body of their army, leavof reach. Their loss from our artillery fire must have been heavy, as the explosion of our shells was seen to make large gaps in their lines. Our loss nearly all across the river on the Virginia side, with in killed, wounded, and prisoners will reach about their artillery planted so as to command the ford. 150. The troops safely returned to Maryland, bringing their wounded with them.

Information was received to-day of the evacuation of Harper's Ferry by the Rebels.

Their artillery was removed from the line of the Potomac last night, and it is believed their army is fulling back in the direction of Charlestown and Winchester.

In the action to-day, Col. Provost of the 118th Pennsylvania was wounded. Also, Capt. Rickets and Lieut. McKean. Among the killed were Capt. Lander and Lieut, White,

It was reported that a force of Rebel cavairy and and a force was sent in that direction this morning. Heavy firing was heard in that direction to-night, which shows that they have become engaged.

REPORTS RECEIVED ON SATURDAY. erers.

ago. A report came to him that another bridge, also on the Baltimore and Ohio road, some distance Ciellan's staff says of the battle on Wednesday that it was a fair stand-up fight, in which neither army slowly sack, but adds that ours could not be regarded as a decisive victory, especially taking into account the cowardly surrender of Harper's Ferry. away. Few prisoners were taken on either side, except in cases where their bravery bad carried the men to far within the hostile lines. The dispatch speaks of the generalship, good conduct, and bravery of Gens. dgwick as beyond all praise, and deplores the wounds which forced them to leave the Admiral Foote has arrived to take charge of his bureau in the Navy Department, and will bring his family here next week.

To the Associated Press.

BEADQUARTERS ARRY OF THE POTOMIC. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | 1840. | Saturday Morning, Aug. 20, 1982. }
The Rebel army has succeeded in making its escape from Maryland. They commenced to leave about dusk on Thursday evening, and by daylight carried off all their wounded but about 300. Be tween 300 and 400 Rebel stragglers were taken during the day by Gen. Pleasanton's cavalry, who took our shells. Two were burnt, and also a large barn located in the center of the town. The citizens who remained escaped injury by staying in their cellars. One child was killed. Two Rebels, while cooking their supper on Taesday, were killed by one of our shots passing through the kitchen. The name given to this battle is the Antietam After our forces occupied the whole field the in killed, than was at first supposed. Fully 2,500 were found lying on the field, while a larger number had been baried the day before by their friends. Their loss in killed and wounded will not come far

Gen. Stark, of the Rebel army, was killed, and Gens. Ripley, Walker, and Hayes, were wounded. The Rebels, on Thursday night, burnt the railroad bridge and several houses at Harper's Ferry. The citizens of Sandy Hook were fleeing into the sountry on Thursday night to escape being impressed into the Rebel service and carried into Yirginis.

New-Work

Vol. XXII....No. 6,698.

NEW-YORK, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1862.

PRICE TWO CENTS.

The Rebels are still visible on the opposite shore cure food, actually wept from hunger, exhaustion, in force. They have posted a large amount of artillery to prevent our troops from crossing the river. The officers of this army are unanimously of the pinion that Gen. Hooker, for his gallantry and bravery, should be made a Brigadier-General in the regular army, made vacant by the death of Gen. Nearly every house in Sharpsburg was struck by our shells. Two were burned, and also a large barn located in the centre of the town. The citizens who remained escaped injury by staying in their cellars. One chiled was killed. Two Rebels, while cooking their supper on Tuesday, were killed by one of our shots passing through the kitchen.

BALTISORN, Saturday, Sept. 20, 1882.

The following dispatch just received from a special army correspondent of The Baltimore American, from Keatsville via Frederick, Sept. 19, says:

"The Rebel army retreated during Thursday night toward the Potenac River. Gen. McClellan's army was all in motion at an early hour this morning prepared to renew its offensive operations against the enemy. By 10 o'clock every road was crowded with constrona and trains army toward the Potensia. cur troops and trains moving toward the Potomse, across the Antietam Creek Bridge, from which our troops from the position I occupied appeared to be moving, mainly along the Sharpsburg and Williamsrends.

Many conflicting reports were received during the day of skirmishing with the rear guards of the edeny, who were in rull flight toward the Potomax. "A gentleman who left Gen. McClellan's head-quarters before the General started, informed me at o'clock, that Gen. Burnside had crossed the Poto ac and was harassing the Kebels' rear.

"The latest reports received are that the Rebels were forced to destroy a large portion of their trains and spike and abandon much of their artillery, to prevent it falling into our hands, so closely were they pursued by the Union army.

"Gen. McCiellan rode out toward the front at 11 ment wis o'clock, and was londly and enthusiastically cheered by the troops as he rode along. The cheering of the troops could be heard a great distance."

FREDERICK, Md., Saturday, Sept. 20, 1862.

A gentleman who left Boonsborough last night batteries across the river, the latter endeavoring to check our pursuit at the river banks.

FREDERICK, Sept. 20, 1862. On Thursday the Rebels sent in a flag of truce, and asked for a suspension of hostilities to enable them to bury their dead. This was granted by Gen. McClellan: but, in contravention of the costoms of with such effect that they were forced to retire out ing a strong rear guard and picket force to cover the

> On Friday morning it was found that they were The rear guard of their army evacuated Sharps-burg at midnight on Thursday night. Our advance entered the town at 5 o'clock the next morning. Griffin's Brigade, of Gen. Morell's Division, was th first to enter. They were rapturously received by the inhabitants as they passed through. The place was completely festooned with the Stars and Stripes, which the citizens had preserved from the desecrating hands of the Rebels by burying them in the cellars during their occupation of the place. The ladies and children sitting at the doors of the houses were almost covered in the folds of the national banner. As the Rebels had almost completely devoured everyartillery had left in the direction of Williamsport, thing in the place in the shape of provisions, our so diers did not fare as well as they otherwise would. Some of the people, however, had succeeded in hiding a portion of their provisions, and these were brought forth and generously distributed among their deliv-

The town of Sharpsburg suffered considerable Washington, Saturday, Sept. 20, 1862.

One of our telegraph operators who returned to set on fire and consumed. The only loss of life There seems to be quite a di Harper's Ferry yesterday reports that there are very among the inhabitants was that of a little girl, who few Rebels in that vicinity. He was fired at while was killed by a piece of shell. The large stone replacing the wire over the river. The railroad house of Mr. Kietzus was the refuge of fifty-even bridge at Harper's Ferry was destroyed several days women and children, who lived principally in the Rebels as completely hemmed in. They say that

Gen. Pleasanton, with his division of cavalry and above, was destroyed yesterday. This operator is four batteries of flying artillery, had meantime overthe only Union force now in occupation of Harper's taken the rear guard of the enemy in their retreat Perry. He heard considerable firing and heavy can-A private dispatch from an officer on Gen. Mcbatteries from the other side, forcing them to withflinched. He expresses the opinion that the Rebels came to the support of the cavalry, throwing out outnumbered us. He says that we drove them skirmishers toward the river, when the heavy guns came to the support of the cavalry, throwing out day. of Hazard and Benjamin, twenty-pounder Parrotts, REPORTS RECEIVED ON SUNDAY. by a shell. The church in almost every part was opened upon the Rebel position, and shelled them > and there encamped. During last night everything was quiet, the enemy making no demonstration In fact, they were not in a condition to to be let alone.

The dawning light of this morning disclosed the yesterday morning were all over, except a small mile, without meeting with opposition. By this menced leaving at dark on Thursday night, and the rear guard. They saved all their transportation and movement six guns of the Rebels were captured, rear of the line passed through Sharpsburg just Nearly every house in Sharpsburg was struck by they were more anxious to prevent the crossing of sented. the river than to annoy or silence our batteries.

The river is swollen somewhat by the late rain, at which the Rebels crossed is directly opposite injury upon the enemy.

Shepherdstown, two miles from Sharpeburg. But About a mile from the river, quite a contest took Shepherdstown, two miles from Sharpeburg. But one wagon could cross at a time, it being very narrow, with deep water each side of it; but as their wagon train was not very large, they managed to session of two guns, which they seemed unable to Rebel loss was found to be far greater, particularly get everything over. With the exception of the move fast enough. They were finally compelled skirmishing above mentioned there has been no fighting since Wednesday.

The inquiry is universal in the army as to where the Union force reported to be on the Virginia side. They seem to have taken a position on the other of the Potomac can be, that they do not intercept side of the Potomac, but they did not reply to our of the Potomac can be, that they do not intercept the Rebels in their retreat. Could they be attacked guns this afternoon, with the exception of three or in front and rear, their treacherous course, in availing themselves of an armistice granted them to bury their dead to secure their escape, would avail them they were in too good a position to be attacked with but little.

In Wednesday's fight, the Rebel Generals Stark

bury the remaining dead, which have become offen-battle. When the Rebel army entered Sharpsburg, they were in such an exhausted and starved con-The troops are all in excellent spirits at the result. dition that some of them, who were unable to pro-

> PHILADELPHIA, Saturday, Sept. 20, 1862. A dispatch from Frederick to-day says:

I am just in from the front of our army. The Blackford's Ford, three miles east of Shapsburg, between the hours of 9 o'clock on Thursday night and other great battle. daybreak on Friday morning. This morning we Rebels. We caused great slaughter among them.

Our wounded are being cared for in the best way possible, but there is nothing like enough doctors

Capt. Myers of the 14th New-York Regiment was wounded.

The 14th Connecticut Regiment lost largely. Five color-bearers were shot while it was engaged. Willard was killed. The regiment held their position for half an hour under a heavy cross fire, and finally fell back to a better position.

34th New-York Regiment were flanked by two Rebel regiments, but they succeeded in cutting their way out, although losing many men in doing so. Col. Hinks of the 79th Massachusetts Regiment, who had just returned to his command, after getting was again badly wounded while at the head of his Major Bloomsberger of the 5th Maryland Regiment wrs wounded in the thigh. Captain Bamberger was wounded in the breast. Lieutenant Matley was killed. This regiment lost heavily. Colonel Childs of the 4th Pennsylvania Cavalry, acting as brigadier-general, was killed while rallying his men. Captain Watson of the 1st Delaware Regiment was killed. Captain Richards was killed. Captain Yardly was badly wounded. Captain Woodell wounded. Lieutenant Gemmall was badly wounded. Lieutenant Shaffer was wounded in the face. Lieutenant-Colonel Hopkinson was wound-

General Max Weber was wounded while leading his men into the fight.

Lieutenant Wilson of the 108th New-York Regiment sprained his back in getting over a fence, in his hurry to chase the enemy. Major Force, of Rochester of the 108th New-York

Major Tarbox of the 108th New-York was killed

Lieut. Draper, aid to Gen. Richardson, received a ball in each leg

Lieut. Mackey of Gen. Meagher's staff wounded. The 11th Pennsylvania Reserves were badly cut up.

Lieut. Resinger of the 130th Pennsylvania Regiment was wounded in the leg. Lieut. Jones was wounded in the leg.

Gen. Dana was wounded. Lieut. Jas. M. Welsh of the Pennsylvania Buck-tail Regiment was mortally wounded. Maj. Cross of the 2d Pennsylvania Reserves was HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 20, 1862. "reliable gentleman" from Hagerstown, that the and wounded; about half of their entire number. entire Rebel army under Stonewall Jackson had sur-rendered. He represents the loss of the Rebels at going into the fight, and were only able to muster damage from our shelling in the battle of Wednesday. from twenty to thirty thousand, and says that their 208 after they came out of it. The officers killed and

There seems to be quite a difference of opinion in Lieut. R. Derby, Lieut. F. S. Corbin, killed; and regard to the whereabouts of the Rebel army in Lieut. W. Gale, Lieut. L. B. Ellingwood, Capt. W.

Gen. McClellan's right and left wings rest on the Potomac, while Generals Sigel and Ricketts are keeping a lookout for them on the opposite side.

Boonsborough were this afternoon sent back into Pennsylvania.

driven in three miles outside of Hagerstown, and that naked. draw for shelter. Gen. Sykes's division of regulars skirmishing had been kept up throughout the whole

From the Battle-Field.

By Special Messenger to the Associated Press.

BATTLE FIRLD OF ANTIRTAN. }

Saturday, Sept. 20, 1002.

Yesterday our lines advanced toward the enemy when the discovery was made that the entire Rebel warrant any such movement, and were but too glad army had retreated during the night, leaving their lines. A large number of their wounded were pickets along the entire line so as to prevent us from brought off the field in our ambulances, and cared for gaining a knowledge of their movements until they by our surgeons. At one of their hospitals some of artillery of the enemy still in position upon the op- had accomplished their purpose. Those left behind posite side of the Potomac. Opposite to them our to perform this duty generally surrendered as soon charge having forgotten to parole them, a brigadierguns were fronting them menacingly. The first as our skirmishers appeared. It seems, from statecrossing was effected by a force of cavalry, but our ments of residents of Sharpsburg and vicinity, that batteries were not in a position to protect them, and Rebel re-enforcements were expected on Friday, but appeared, who gave chase, firing his revolver at the they were forced to withdraw. The infantry, how- they did not arrive, and consequently it was decided ever, succeeded better, and after fording the river to cross the river, as they were in no condition for they throw out pickets, or rather skirmishers, for a such a battle as that of the 17th inst. So they comwhich were taken across, and are now placed in a before daylight yesterday morning. They crossed position to harass their late owners. The Rebels at the river at different points in the vicinity of Sharpsfirst replied with considerable vigor to our artillery, burg, as there are several fords within two miles of but as they merely designed to cover their retreat that place, although the contrary has been repre-

Our cavalry started in pursuit as soon as the retreat was known, but beyond capturing a few hunand fording is a rather serious business. The ford dred stragglers, they succeeded in inflicting but little > place between a part of Gen. Porter's corps, which were in the advance, and the enemy, for the porto abandon them, one of which they spiked.

> Their trains have all got off, notwithstanding, is said, their horses were completely worn out. four shots.

An attempt was made to cross and flank them, but

A Union man named Hughes same in from William could not say how many. For fear he might be caught, he left in haste, and therefore did not count them. He said about 2,000 cavalry and 1,000 infantry were on this side, and the column was still coming over, the rear not being visible. According to another report, it was only a small party sent over to forage and harass the jubabitants. With this exception the soil of Maryland is free from the inva-Rebels succeeded in crossing their entire army at der, a result which all expected at an early day, though few thought such a thing possible before a

The retreat of an army so large as that of the were engaged in shelling the woods on the opposite Rebels, in the face of one like our own, was cerwere engaged in shelling the words of the opposition of the river, preparatory to crossing. The tainly creditable to its commanders, especially when Rebels have planted batteries at Williamsport, on it is considered they met with but slight loss the opposite side of the Potomac, to prevent the right while it was being consummated. One thing wing of our army from crossing. The roads are however, was in its favor, which was that they had lined with guns, haverancks, blankets, &c., of the Antietam Creek in their front about half the length of their line, over which our troops could not cross but at one point.

It was at this bridge that Gen. Pleasanton's car alry made such a splendid dash across in the face of a fire from several batteries planted to sweep from different points, and which rained a perfec shower of shell upon it, while our troops were crossing, most of which fortunately did not explode. As oon as the cavalry crossed, they were followed by Gen. Sykes's division of regulars, in support of three batteries-Tidball's, Gibson's and Robinson'swhich, aftergetting into position, silenced the Rebels at this point, and relieved Gen. Sumner's corps from a fire from which they would have otherwise been ompelled to fall back.

Some of the most desperate fighting over recorded in history took place on this field. In passing over well of the wounds he received at Nelson's Farm, the ground to-day the evidence was manifested where the most deadly contests occurred, the dead and dying lying thick and in rows where they had fallen on the enemy's center.

Three lines of battle had been formed from a point west of the Hagerstown turnpike across the road distance of about half a mile-and these lines were almost as distinct as when the living masses still formed them, the dead lying so close as to be nearly within reach of one another's hands along the entire distance, while in many places they lay one upon another. The enemy at this point were attacked by King's, Ricketts's, and Sedgwick's divisions, and the Rebels, although maintaining their ground for a frightfully large. Duryee's brigade, which opened this attack, lost above half its force, but maintained its position until relieved by fresh troops. Its loss New-York, Lieut. Buckley of 105th New-York, killed: Lieut.-Col. Carroll, Capt. Bradley, Major Shedd, and Lieut. Doolittle of 105th, and Capt. Tuttle, Lieut. Dow, and Lieut. Wilson of 104th, and 432 in killed and wounded, out of about 850 who went into setion. The enemy's loss in killed at this part of the field was at least two to our one, and many were of the opinion it would average the same all over the battle-ground. This is accounted for by the fact that our men fire high, while the Rebels seem to be particularly instructed to fire low. The prisoners say they always like to meet a regiment of Zonaves, with red tronsers, as these serve as distinctive marks. In evidence of this, take the casualties of the 14th Brooklyn and 5th New-York regiments, battle, being in the lower limbs.

At a piece of woods where they made a stand, after being driven buck, Gorman's Brigade of Sedg-There is a rumor in circulation here, brought by a wick's Division suffered heavy loss, having 894 killed wounded in this regiment are Capt. C. S. Simonds Forchard, Lieut. T. J. Spurr, Capt. Bartlett, Capt. Wounded soldiers arriving here represent the Jocelyn, and Lieut. A. J. Bradley, all slightly wounded.

The division succeeded in driving the enemy from the woods, and held it for more than an hour, but were finally compelled to abandon it and fall back. The State militia lately sent to Hagerstown and This is the only part of the field we gained from which our troops were compelled to retire. Those who fell at this spot were found stripped of their Report says that our pickets were this morning clothing by the Rebels, some bodies being entirely

At a spot near the church, on the center of the battle-field, a Major, two Lieutenants, and three privates were found dead, having been torn to pieces riddled with balls.

In the haste of the retreat, the enemy left above five hundred of their wounded at houses and barns where they had established hospitals, and very few of their dead were buried excepting officers, their graves being found in corn-fields, in the rear of their our wounded had been taken, and the officers general returned on Friday morning to do so, had gone but a few minutes, when a cavalry soldier lying rebel, but without effect.

An incident is related of a boy belonging to the 9th New-York regiment, whose name could not be ascertained, who stood in front of his regiment while it engaged the enemy at short range, in which position he fired all his cartridges, then took his dead comrades' cartridge-box and fired the entire contents-in all 95 rounds-not receiving a scratch the whole time, not withstanding the ground was covered with dead and wounded all around him. The regimer was ordered to charge a rifle-pit where the Rebels were concealed, and our young hero was the first who entered it, the enemy flying at the approach The loss of the Rebels in this battle was yer heavy, and evidently exceeded ours. A wounded soldier of the 2d North Carolina said his regiment left Richmond a month ago 700 strong, and on Thurs lay morning could muster only 200. A negro who was captured, and who knows Jack son well, states that he saw him with his arm in sling on Friday, upon the field. Gen. Stark wa killed. One of the prisoners states that Gen. Joe Johnston died recently at Richmond of wounds received at Fair Oaks.

FREDERICK, Saturday, Sept. 20, 1862.

Shelling was kept up at the river, at Shepherdstown, until Friday night.

A report has come into Frederick that a force wa crossing at Williamsport, and that a part of our army and Lawton were killed. Gen. Lee acknowledged port this afternoon, and reports that a large force of the was sent to meet them. Heavy firing was heard at , Burnside's corps, composing our left, in commo

Large details of men were made this morning to that they lost 10,000 in killed and wounded in that enemy had crossed this morning at that place, but he noon to-day in that direction, and at Sharpsburg, but ither place. This morning, a delegation of twenty surgeon from New-York passed through Boonsborough on their way to the battle-field. A number of ladies also followed in ambulances, under charge of Miss Dix. The churches and other buildings in Boonsgrough and Keedysville are full of our wounded, and the ladies of these places are cheerfully doing all in their power to alleviate their sufferings. The all in their power to alleviate their sanerings. Like inhabitants in the vicinity of Frederick and Hagerstown are returning to their homes, and seem to be in great glee because the Rebels are driven across the as they profess it, of the cause. It is for hate, in

No pillaging was allowed by the Robels previous o the battle of South Mountain, but after that they leaned the country pretty thoroughly, particularly around Sharpsburg, almost every house in the town having been robbed, and goods which they could not se were destroyed. Many houses were riddled by bullets and shells, and several barns burned.

There is no evidence that either Longstreet or Lee was wounded in the battle of Wednesday.

The number of prisoners in our hands is about 2,000. At least 10,000 stand of arms were found on he field belonging to the enemy.

Col. Christian, of the 26th New-York, Acting Brigadier-General, in the place of Gen. Tower, who safer to fight stubbornly under such discipline than was wounded recently at Bull Run, has resigned, and Col. Lyle, of the 90th Pennsylvania, is now in command of the brigade, and will ably fill the Extent of Our Losses-Arrival of Re-en forcements-The Events of Thursday. From Our Special Correspondent.

On the Front, Thursday, Sept. 18, 1362-10 p. m.

A day of rest-such rest as can be found with is especially a misfortune to us, when, as in many, three miles of dead men to bury, and thousands of many cases, the lives of our own wounded are enwounded to bring from the field. A day of standing dangered, and in not a few cases I fear are absoluteon the line where the battle closed-of intermittent ly lost, waiting for the care of our surgeon. My sharp-shooting, occasional discharges of artillery, heart has been sorely pained this day to hear our and several fields to near the Boonsboro' turnpike-a but no general skirmishing-no attempt to advance poor fellows appealing to me and other bystanders to on either side.

time, were compelled to give way, their loss being exhausted ammunition to come forward, for re-en-frightfully large. Duryee's brigade, which opened forcements to arrive. The troops are rested, the &c.; when the least spark of humanity would have ammunition is received, the re-enforcements are here. taught him that nothing rejoices a wound in officers was as follows: Capt. Kelly of 104th front; to-night, we have planted new batteries, and distant friends of him; and that nothing so relieves struggle, or will he adopt his old policy, and improve names. the leisure we have given him, by stealing away in But our wounded waiting in our improvised hosleut. Delano of 94th, wounded. This brigade lost the night? He has no empty breastworks with pitals has not been the worst feature of this battle's with dead.

> If yesterday's battle was not a great victory, at out of reach of danger. Many of such could not be Chief estimates the total of our killed and wounded their range. One of the 12th Ohio, a regiment deat 10,000.

Frederick, 18 miles. Keedysville and Boonsborough, suffering souls screeching out for water, determin three-fourths of the casualties among them, in every with every house and barn in the adjacent country, to approach him, and release him from the torture of Hagerstown, whence they will be carried by rail- another, and he was stopped balf-way in his mission of his heart swell with pride.

oked upon that wonderful panorama can describe and he was pressed back. But every hill and valley, stand it. * lercely fought for.

was like the patter of rain-drops in an April shower. man and his value as an officer, to tell you that Gen. On the great broken field were riderless horses and cattering men; clouds of dirt from shot and explodfro, with columns of smoke rising from their mus-kets—with flashes and white puffs from the batteries file. Some of them were his own men. They were -with the sun shining brightly on all this scene of weeping at the prospect of his speedy dissolution. tumult, and beyond it, upon the dark, rich woods, He had received a ball in his bowels, which must and the clear blue mountains, flows the Potomac.

And all the screaming of shot, and thundering of annon, and whistling of balls, with the fearful arnage they brought, I saw no considerable breakng among our troops, save with several new regients of French's division, in Sumper's corps. They fell back in confusion, losing considerable ground. True, it was ground we had won from the enemy; than 30, and a resident, I was told, of Lyun, Conn. and Franklin afterward recovered the most of it but not all. A narrow strip is still within the Rebel ines, and more remains disputed territory. To-day on the front has been devoted mainly to the burying of the dead. In front of Richardson's now Hancock's) division, at 4 p. m., a flag of truce was raised, and the sharpshooting ceased. On the debatable ground between our line and the enemy's, Gens. Hancock and Meagher rode over into a corn field and met Gen. Roger A. Pryor. Pryor stated hat the flag had been raised by us, and asked if we esired permission to take offour dead and wounded Our Generals indignantly denied that the signal for a truce came from us, as we claimed the ground. They informed Pryor that we had been engaged during the whole day in bringing off and caring for both forty. ur own wounded and his, and suggested a cessation of sharpshooting until all the suffering could be side's corps yet. removed. This he declined, though the ground is o exposed to our advance that the Rebels' line nade no attempt to bring in their wounded, and in From Our Special Correspondent. Kendrsville, Sept. 18, 1862. en minutes the firing reopened.

In front of Conch's lines, by common consent, ooth the Rebels and our own soldiers were mingling tory as many officers of high rank at first claimed is freely, taking away the wounded. One of our regit to be. Though we drove the enemy nearly two miles ments was within a quarter of a mile of a Rebel upon both right and left, and slept upon the battle battery, and the ground near it was covered with ground with the Rebel dead lying all about us, no one pectators from our lines. Whenever the enemy letected any one using a field glass on his camp of battery, his sharpshooters would at ouce re-open, notwithstanding the informal truce. A. D. R.

Incidents of the Battle of Sharpsburg, the Left, and List of Wounded.
From Our Special Correspondent.
KREDTSVILLE, Sept. 18, 1962.

with the rest of our army, rested upon the ground they had won, inactive all day to-day. The silence of the Rebels to-day, so strikingly in contrast with the almost unceasing booming of cannon, shricking of shell, and rattling of musketry, naturally impressed one with the feeling that the enemy had skedaddled in the night; but a cautious feeling and looking about during the day has convinced our Generals pretty satisfactorily that he maintains, in silence and as much secrecy as possible, the base of his original line—the long belt of woods, and the village of Sharpeburg, a mile or so in advance of our main line, and perhaps half a mile distant from our advance position. It may be asked why we didn't resume the attack this morning, and fight him if here, or pur-sue him if he had fled, and give him no time to rest. The candid answer to that doubtless would be, that we want time to rest, too; and we want time to bury our dead, collect and treat our wounded, replace the officers disabled and fallen, &c. In truth, the enemy gave us a big day's work. Work cannot be continue very well two days consecutively at that rate. The Rebels fight with perfect self-devotion. As lang as their officers will lead them and com.and them, the Rebel rank and file will obey part, of the d-d Yankees. They have been educated to hate us for generations by all the art and assiduity of their subtle musters, the slaveholders. But mainly it is in slavish fear of their officers. They are ruled with the most rigid tyranny, and the least infraction is visited with the speediest and craelest repression. A Rebel soldier was set upon and abused by his company officer in the street of Middletown, before we drove the last of them out. The soldier presumed to say that if his colonel were there he would not treat him that way; and the officer cut him in the neck with his sword, gagged him, and had him bound upon his back on a carriage wagos and dragged off! We may guess that it is much to shirk. Straggling is certain death. Desperate fighting gives nine chances to one for his life, though it may have to be dragged out upon one leg.

The ground we took from the enemy yesterday may be fairly estimated at about half a mile width on an average, the whole length of the line; we have therefore been busied with the care of numbers of the enemy's wounded in addition to our own. This try and get a surgeon to come and look at their The enemy is still here, apparently in strong force. wounds 24 hours after they were indicted! I was Sorely pressed back yesterday, to-day he could not thinking that some surgeons might exert themselves attack, and we have not. This morning, with the a little more, when a Dr. Owen, Brigade Surgeon, fresh arrivals, and one full corps not engaged yes- by courtesy-for there is no such officer, I believe terday, we could have thrown thirty or forty thou- provided for in the regulations-of Gen. Martindale's and new men into action. We have been waiting, Brigade, courtcously told me that he did not want it is said, for the troops to rest, for some kinds of me there (in the barn) taking the names of wounded The newly-arrived divisions are sent up to the heart more than to see a person who will tell his the general belief is that we attack in the morning. those distant friends from torturing suspense as the Will the enemy be here for another life-or-death communication we make through those lists of which to endow us, but he can leave us a field consequences. Notwithstanding we occupied the ploughed with shot, drenched with blood, and thick battle-field or had made an advance, we did not hold as far as we advanced in some of our onsets, and the "A great victory," said Wellington, " is the most result followed, of course, that some of our brave felawful thing in the world except a great defeat." lows fell beyond the ground within our control, and least it had all the terrific feature of one. Our loss reached, as the sharpshooters of the enemy were in Generals is unparalleled; and the Commander-in- outposted to pick off all who dared to come within tailed as skirmishers to-day, Corporal Verian Good-Many of the wounded have been taken back to law of Company C, overhearing one of those poor are full of them; and large numbers are carried to dying of thirst; but crack, crack, one rifle after road to Harrisburg, Philadelphia, and New-York. | mercy by a bullet in his forehead penetrating quite On the whole our troops behaved admirably. No through his brain. He was barely alive when his great army ever did better. Every loyalist who saw comrades laid him in the nearest barn. Some diffihow steadily and solidly they moved forward to culties of etiquette, both military and political, have encounter that terrific storm of iron and lead felt stood in the way to-day of an adjustment of terms, en which the respective parties should resort to their desc The opportunity for seeing the battle was un- and wounded unmolested in any part of yesterday's paralleled. A single stand-point commanded nearly field. The Rebels are afraid to ask us squarely for the the whole field from dawn to dark. No one who privilege, for fear it will virtually acknowledge us ictors. McClellan will not, for the sake of the c ; neither can any who saw forget. Contrary to parative few we cannot get without, because we are is usual policy, the enemy met us in open country, the victors. That is about the fact, as I under-every corn-field, grove, and cluster of trees was A number have died to-day of their wounds, the lamented Col. Kingsbury for one. I must mention The artillery was unceasing; we could often count the death scene of Capt. John Griswold, Co. A, 11th nore than 60 guns to the minute; and the musketry Conn. It is the highest testimony to his merit as a Burnside (in whose corps the Captain's regiment served) visited the Captain before Lis doath. ng shells, long dark lines of infantry swaying to and barn floor littered with straw formed his death bed. prove mortal. But for his conduct none could anticiate that the mournful event was near. His loving soldiers and others wept. His mind was clear to the last, and sustained, if not joyous. "Weep not, my friends, for me. I die as I have always wishe die," and he ceased to breathe, without a sign of sadness. He was a young man, in appearance not more

> Some of the 2d Maryland boys insist upon it that they gave the quietus to ci-dieant Sepator Toombs. They say that a surgeon, or a somebody, who saw the body asserted to be his, knew the ex-Senator, and identified the body. The ornaments and official insignia were cut off the clothes, so that the rank could not be ascertained.

The 17th Michigan complain that they were de ceived by the Rebels hoisting an American flag to decoy them, and then suddenly substituting their own, and taking them by surprise. The 9th New-Hampshire lest about 52 killed and wounded during the day-five of them killed. Surgeon Squires of the 89th New-York informed me that his regiment lost in wounded, all told, about

I will not attempt to give the total loss of Barn

After the Battle.

can contend but that the enemy still held our center in check; and that he held his own, which was the key to his position, no one can likewise deny. The great battle which is to demonstrate whether Gen. Lee or Gen. McClellan is the abler officer will probably be fought this afternoon or to-morrow. morning a flag of truce came from the enemy asking permission to bury his dead. It was peremptor

See Righth Page.